

GuestQueue

The GuestQueue is used for guests to decide which question they'll answer next. Guests have three options available to them per question which will be explained below.

The Queue

After questions go through the ModQueue all the approved ones will then move to the Guest(s) for answering.

Overview

Option	Recommended Emote	What it does
Accept	Checkmark	Approves the question and sends it to the question channel.

Decline	X mark	Declines the question and removes it.
Maybe later	Timer	Makes the question yellow, perhaps later if there's time?

Answering

Once a question is accepted it then moves to your designated question channel where the guest(s) can answer it.

Final notes

While it may not be great having to go back and forth to select the next question it gives guests the choice of what they want to answer without anyone knowing what was skipped. It helps to keep the stress down for them and encourage them to answer questions they want to answer.
